Rural Children's Mental Health: Pathways and Barriers to Care

Katherine Boydell, Ph.D.

Health Systems Research Scientist
*Community Health Systems Resource Group
Hospital for Sick Children*

Kate Tilleczek, Ph.D.

Senior Researcher / Professor
Centre for Rural and Northern Health Research Laurentian University

This presentation is based on a study jointly conducted by CRaNHR and the Hospital for Sick Children. Utilizing a qualitative approach, this research addresses the issue of access to care by children and youth with emotional and behavioural disorders in rural areas from the perspectives of both service providers and families.

Dr. Katherine Boydell has close to 20 years of experience in conducting qualitative research in the field of community mental health. Her research has focused on key issues in health and mental health and the use of participatory approaches. Results of her research have been used to support people with serious mental illness living in the community.

For over 10 years, Dr. Kate Tilleczek has conducted research on developmental health of children and youth. She teaches qualitative research methods and the sociology of children and youth. Her other research interest is evaluation of distance education in rural and remote communities.

This free seminar is open to all interested persons
